

THE COTTAGE DOOR.

How sweet thest that labor yields
The humble and the poor,
Where sits the patriarch of the fields
Before his cottage door.
The lark is singing in the sky,
The swallows on the eaves,
And love is beaming in each eye
Beneath the summer leaves.

The air amid the fragrant bowers
Supplies unpurchased health,
And herbs are bounding 'mid the flowers,
More dear to him than wealth,
Peace, like the blessed sunlight, plays
Around his humble cot.
And happy nights and cheerful days
Divide his lowly lot.

And when the village Sabbath bell
Rings out upon the gale,
The father bows his head to tell
The music of his tale.
A fresher verdure seems to fill
The fair and dewy sod,
And every infant tongue is still
To hear the Word of God.

O, happy hearts to him who stills
The ravens when they cry,
And makes the lily 'neath the hills
Soglorious to the eye.
The trusting patriarch prays to bless
His labors with increase;
Such ways are "ways of pleasantness,"
And all such "paths are peace."

UNKNOWN GEMS—
There's many a gem unpolished,
And many a star unknown—
And many a bright but perished
Neglected alone—
When had one word been spoken
In kindly, gentle tone,
The bud had blossomed, and the
The gem had graced a throne!

Then, e'en thou not the lowly,
Nor do him aught of wrong,
Lest thou crush an impulse holy,
Or blight a soul of song!

A New Bill of Rights.

A wag has made up a summary of what he calls the "Inalienable Rights of Americans," and which are not enumerated in the Declaration of Independence. There is a vein of poignant sarcasm running through it.

To know any trade or business, without apprenticeship or experience.

To marry without regard to fortune, state of health, position or opinion of parents or friends.

To have a wife and children depend on contingencies of business, and in case of sudden death to leave them wholly unprotected.

To put on hiring strangers, the literary, moral and religious education of children.

To teach children no good trade, hoping they will have grown up, with enough to live on the industry of other people.

To enjoy the general sympathy when made bankrupt by reckless speculations.

To cheat the government if possible.

To hold office without being competent to discharge its duties.

To build houses with nine and six inch walls, and go to funerals of tenants, firemen and others, killed by their fall, weeping over the mysterious dispensations of Providence.

To build up cities and towns without parks, public squares, broad streets or ventilated buildings, and call pestilence a visitation of God.

SPEAK WELL OF OTHERS.—If the disposition to speak well of others were universally present, the world would become comparatively a Paradise. The opposite disposition is the Pandora box, which, when opened, fills every house with pain and sorrow. How many enmities and heart-burnings flow from this source. How much happiness is interrupted and destroyed. Envy, jealousy, and the malignant spirit of evil, when they find vent by the lips, go forth on their mission like foul fiends to blast the reputation and peace of others. Every one has his imperfections, and in the conduct of the best there will be occasional faults that might seem to require animadversion. It is a good rule, however, when there is occasion for fault-finding, to do it privately to the erring one. This may prove salutary. It is a proof of interest in the individual, which will generally be taken kindly, if the manner of doing it be not offensive. The common and unchristian rule, on the contrary, is to proclaim the faults of others to all but themselves.

HOW AND WHEN TO EAT FRUIT.—Hall's Journal of Health says: "Fruit should not be indulged in between meals, as tho' it were a luxury, but used in moderation at meal time, in the place of animal food. It should not be eaten for dessert, after a full meal has been made, as is usually done—a custom which cannot be too severely reprobated. Fruit may, with safety, be eaten at any meal; but it would be well to confine it to breakfast. The old saying will be found true by practice: 'Fruit is gold in the morning, silver at noon, and lead at night.' Let it constitute a part of the breakfast, and be eaten at no other period of the day; let it be ripe and not be eaten immoderately and incalculable benefits will arise from its use, both in preventing the access and staying the progress of disease during the summer and fall months."

A Methodist minister at the west, who lived on a small salary, was greatly troubled to get his quarterly installment.—He at last told the non-paying trustees that he must have his money, as his family were suffering for the necessities of life.—"Money?" replied the steward, "you preach for money?" I thought you preached for the good of souls!" "Souls," he replied the minister, "I can't eat souls; and if I could, it would take a thousand such as yours to make a meal."

It is claimed for Mr. Buchanan that he works 19 hours a day. The Devil works 24.
